Siperstein Dermatology Group Offers New Procedure To Reduce Neck Fat Without Surgery

Siperstein Dermatology Group, led by acclaimed Board-Certified Cosmetic Dermatologist Robyn Siperstein, M.D., was recently selected to be among the first in the area to provide Kybella, the latest noninvasive fat-reducing treatment. This treatment is an in-office procedure that involves simply injecting Kybella into the neck over several sessions; over the course of a few weeks after injection, the fat slowly breaks down. The end result is that the appearance of a "double chin" or "turkey neck" diminishes with no downtime. Siperstein Dermatology Group, 950 Glades Road, 4th Floor, Boca Raton, 561-955-8885; 9897 Hagen Ranch Road, Boynton Beach, 561-364-7774; sipderm.com.

Countdown To Chris Evert/Raymond James Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic

The Chris Evert/Raymond James Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic, which raises funds to combat drug abuse and child neglect, will be holding its annual charity event the weekend of Nov. 20-22. Since retiring from the professional game in 1989, tennis legend and South Florida philanthropist Chris Evert has raised nearly $22 million through the Pro-Celebrity Classic. Evert enlists the help of celebrity friends who join the fundraising efforts, and the 2015 event already has commitments from a long list of celebrities: comedian and political commentator Dennis Miller; rapper and TV host Robert Van Winkle (aka Vanilla Ice); singer-songwriter David Cook; actors Alan Thicke, Jon Lovitz and Timothy Olyphant; actress Maeve Quinlan; and former WTA pro and International Tennis Hall of Famer Pam Shriver. Longtime partners Raymond James Financial and Broward Health Chris Evert Children's Hospital continue to support Evert's charity through the tennis event. Title sponsor Raymond James is a Florida-based financial services company, while the Children's Hospital is a family-centered facility providing care for newborns, neonates, children and youth. Chris Evert Charities, 7200 W. Eau Palm Beach Resort & Spa Managing Director Michael King And Team Trade Welcome Mats For Hard Hats

After spending a day in June installing roof trusses on a Habitat for Humanity of South Palm Beach County home, hoteliers from Eau Palm Beach Resort & Spa – led by Managing Director Michael King – were eager to once again trade their oceanfront views for hammers and nails to install a roof on a second Habitat home. More than 20 staff members from the AAA Five Diamond property, representing all departments, from food and beverage to Eau Spa, donned hard hats and work gloves to get their hands dirty for the Dorsanvil family in Boynton Beach. "What makes our hoteliers at Eau Palm Beach Resort & Spa so good at their jobs is their teamwork and desire to ensure people are well-cared-for and happy," King says. "That conscientiousness was on display while working on both of these Habitat homes, and I shared in their enthusiasm to make a dream come true for two most deserving families." Eau Palm Beach Resort & Spa, 100 S.
